Engage completed the phased civil design and tender documents for streetscape and pedestrian improvements at the intersection of Ennis Road and Tara Road in the Township of Selwyn. The project included a public consultation process at the 90% design stage to gather community feedback, with milestone updates provided to Selwyn Council throughout the design phase. Key improvements included the extension of the sidewalk along the north side of Ennis Road and County Road 16, enhancing pedestrian connectivity to the Ennismore Community Centre. A comprehensive review of parking at the southwest corner of the intersection was conducted to optimize functionality. Additional enhancements included the installation of curbed planters with low-maintenance decorative plant species, decorative crosswalks, and upgraded lighting to improve the streetscape. The final design prioritized safety, accessibility, and aesthetic enhancements, providing a welcoming first impression for residents and visitors.
